INNOVATION

In the face of a pandemic like COVID-19, our success depends upon preparation.

H1N1 and SARs resulted in learning opportunities for pandemic preparedness. ProResp incorporated these lessons into our Pandemic Plan and implemented it to combat COVID-19.

ProResp's Respiratory Therapists are trained and prepared to stand and fight with all Respiratory Therapists on the frontline and across our healthcare system. With an expected surge of patients coming from acute care, ProResp is ready to do our part and provide safe and responsible community respiratory therapy to alleviate pressures on our hospital partners.

To minimize infection risk, ProResp is relying on technology to exchange information, conduct virtual respiratory assessments where possible, and check-in on the general well-being of our shared patients.

Everyone has a part to play to slow the spread of COVID-19.

ProResp is committed to keeping our team,
our patients and our communities safe.
